HISTORICALLY BLACK COLLEGES
AND UNIVERSITIES, AND TRIBAL COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

I. Eligibility

1. I teach at a minority-serving institution, but not at an institution officially designated as a Hispanic-Serving Institution, Historically Black College or University, or Tribal College or University. Am I eligible to apply?

Only applicants who teach at, serve on the staff of, or have retired from officially designated Hispanic-Serving Institutions, Historically Black Colleges or Universities, or Tribal Colleges or Universities are eligible to apply to these Awards for Faculty programs. A list of Historically Black Colleges and Universities is available here (click on “Accredited HBCU listing”), and a list of Tribal Colleges and Universities is available here.

To determine whether you are affiliated with a Hispanic-Serving Institution, begin by consulting this list (PDF), compiled by the Department of Education, which includes both Title III institutions and Title V (Hispanic-serving) institutions. Your institution is eligible if a) it appears on the list; AND b) at least 25 percent of its undergraduate full-time equivalent enrollment consists of Hispanic students, as determined by the College Navigator tool at the website of the National Center for Education Statistics. (To use this tool, type in the name of your institution and then click on “Show Results.” A clickable version of the institution’s name will appear to the right of where you typed it in. Clicking on it will yield a series of items. Click on “Enrollment,” the fifth choice in the column, and then examine the data for “Undergraduate Race/Ethnicity.” If the figure for “Hispanic/Latino” enrollment is 25 percent or more, your institution meets this requirement.)

If your institution is not on the list of Title III and Title V institutions, you may confirm its eligibility as a Hispanic-Serving Institution by submitting a 2014 or 2015 letter or other document from the Department of Education, certifying Title V eligibility. You may upload a

PDF version of the document with the application, using Attachment 4. Alternatively, you may send a PDF version of the document by e-mail attachment to FacultyAwards@neh.gov or fax the document to the Awards for Faculty program at 202-606-8204. The document must arrive on or before June 2, 2015.

2. I am a graduate student. Am I eligible to apply for an award?

No. However, if you have successfully defended your dissertation, teach at one of the target institutions, and are merely waiting for your degree to be conferred, you are eligible to apply to one of the NEH Awards for Faculty programs. Have your dean or department chair fax a signed letter to NEH (to 202-606-8204), stating that you have successfully completed all requirements for the Ph.D.; alternatively, the dean or department chair may send a PDF version of the signed letter by e-mail attachment to FacultyAwards@neh.gov. NEH must receive the letter on or before June 2, 2015.

3. To be eligible, must my project have some connection to the identity of my institution as a Historically Black College or University, Hispanic-Serving Institution, or Tribal College or University?

No. Projects addressing any topic within the humanities (or the social sciences employing humanistic methods) are eligible, except for those projects disallowed in Part I of the guidelines ("Program Description"). Proposing a topic connected to the identity of your institution will neither improve nor lessen your chances of receiving an award.

4. Does this program support projects whose results will be written in a language other than English?

Yes. Applicants must provide a rationale for projects that will be written in a language other than English. The proposal itself must be written in English.

5. May I apply to translate a work into English if other English translations already exist?

Yes. In the proposal narrative, provide a rationale for a new translation.

6. I am involved in a collaborative project. Can collaborators split an award?

No. This program is designed primarily for individual researchers. Awards may not be divided. If you are seeking funding for more than one participant in a collaborative project, each person seeking funding must submit a separate application. Panelists will be asked to evaluate each application on its own merits. Each application should clearly explain how the work will be divided and the extent to which each collaborator's contribution depends on that of the other(s). Applicants who are seeking funding only for themselves but who are working as part of a collaborative team are also eligible. In this case, too, the application should clearly explain how the work will be divided and the extent to which each collaborator's contribution depends on that of the other(s). Applicants proposing to work together may wish to apply instead or in addition for an NEH Collaborative Research grant or for an appropriate Humanities Initiatives grant (Humanities Initiatives at Hispanic-Serving Institutions, Humanities Initiatives at

Historically Black Colleges and Universities, or Humanities Initiatives at Tribal Colleges and Universities.)

7. I want to use my award to post on a website materials for a course that I teach regularly, so that it will be more interesting to students. Am I eligible to apply?

You are eligible, but the proposal is unlikely to be competitive. This program is intended to foster projects that are research-based, and they require grantees to spend significant time pursuing a plan of research. While work with technology can be incorporated into the plan in order to enhance the research agenda, projects aimed chiefly at working with technology or learning technological skills are ineligible; applicants must show specifically how the digital technology will be applied to the proposed research and describe the expected results in the classroom.

Those interested in creating digital products should consider Digital Humanities Start-Up Grants or other funding opportunities offered through the NEH Office of Digital Humanities.

8. I want to apply to improve a course that enrolls both undergraduate and graduate students. Am I eligible to apply?

You are eligible, but the course must be listed independently as an undergraduate course and must enroll a majority of undergraduate students. Applicants must demonstrate how the proposed project encourages excellence in undergraduate teaching of the humanities. Projects that focus exclusively or primarily on graduate teaching are ineligible.

9. May I continue to carry a normal teaching load while holding a part-time award from NEH?

No. If you hold a part-time award during a period in which you are teaching, you must reduce your teaching load accordingly. For example, if you are holding the award half-time, you may carry only half the teaching load that your institution considers normal.

II. Other Fellowship Opportunities

1. Can I apply for other NEH grants to support the same project that I am submitting to the Awards for Faculty program?

Yes. NEH encourages applicants to apply to all programs for which they are eligible. Applicants to the Awards for Faculty program are especially encouraged to consider applying to the NEH Fellowships program (April 30, 2015 deadline) and the Summer Stipends program (October 1, 2015 deadline). If you are offered more than one award, however, you may accept only one in any given fiscal year.

2. How does the Awards for Faculty program differ from the NEH Fellowships program and the Summer Stipends program?

In many cases, you will be able to submit a substantially similar application to all three programs, but there are several important differences to keep in mind. They are summarized in this table:

	Awards for Faculty	Fellowships	Summer Stipends
Term of Award	2 to 12 months, full-time equivalent. May be held part-time.	6 to 12 months, full time. May not be held part-time.	2 months, full time. May not be held part-time.

3. What other programs are offered by institutions with which NEH collaborates to support individual research in the humanities?

NEH collaborates with several organizations to offer support for research programs:

- Library of Congress (LOC)—John W. Kluge Center Fellowships*
Projects that draw on the collections of the Library of Congress are eligible for support. Interested applicants should apply directly to LOC's Kluge Center Fellowships Program.
- Japan-United States Friendship Commission (JUSFC) – Fellowship Program for Advanced Social Science Research on Japan*
Subjects may include modern Japanese political economy, international relations and society, and United States-Japan relations. Applicants may consult the JUSFC website for additional information. Application guidelines are available here.
- NEH Grants for Fellowship Programs at Independent Research Institutions (FPIRI)*
Projects to be undertaken at independent centers for advanced study, libraries, and museums in the United States, and research centers overseas, are eligible for support. Individual scholars must apply directly to the institutions themselves. Here is a list of currently funded institutions.
- NEH and National Science Foundation Fellowships Program for Documenting Endangered Languages (DEL)*
Projects on endangered languages are eligible for support. A full description of the DEL program is located here.

III. Application and References

1. What help is available for preparing the proposal?

Although applicants to this program are not required to submit a draft, program staff will read and comment on draft proposals submitted by e-mail not later than Sunday, March 15, 2015. NEH staff members are also available to answer specific questions about preparing your proposal and about your eligibility. They may be reached at (202) 606-8200 and at FacultyAwards@neh.gov. Applicants are encouraged to review the list of sample projects and the sample applications. (The list of sample projects and the sample applications are available at any of the three program resource pages: Awards for Faculty at Hispanic-Serving Institutions, Awards for Faculty at Historically Black Colleges and Universities, and Awards for Faculty at Tribal Colleges and Universities.) Applicants are also encouraged to study sample Fellowships proposals, which are available here. Applications for Fellowships and for Awards to Faculty must make the same kind of case for their projects.

2. I applied for a grant last year and my proposal was rejected. Will I be at a disadvantage if I reapply?

No. NEH encourages previous applicants to reapply and does not inform panelists that a proposal was unsuccessful in a previous competition. Moreover, NEH employs different panelists from year to year. You are strongly encouraged to ask to see the reviewers' assessments of your rejected proposal; considering the issues that they raised may help you craft an improved application for resubmission.

3. My project is interdisciplinary. What is the most effective way of characterizing it for the review process?

NEH supports proposals that cross disciplinary boundaries. On the NEH Supplemental Information for Individuals Form you may select up to three disciplinary fields that characterize your project. If you select more than one, list the primary field first. When selecting references, choose two who can effectively attest to your ability to work in the different disciplines that are relevant to your project—keeping in mind that one of the letters must be written by your department chair or dean, or by another academic official at your institution.

4. Whom should I ask for letters of reference? What makes a letter of reference effective?

In the Awards for Faculty competition, one letter must come from your department chair or dean, or from another academic official at your institution. This letter is required primarily to ensure that applicants seeking an award are supported by their institutions, even though the award might reduce their teaching load. The second letter should come from someone who has expertise in your proposed area of research. The second letter need not come from someone at an institution other than your own, but evaluators often prefer such letters. Letters that assess the value of the specific project that you propose and your ability to complete it are more highly regarded than those that speak in generalities, focus on the applicant's personal qualities, or repeat the language of the application narrative. You are strongly encouraged to provide your letter writers with a draft of your application well ahead of the deadline, and to discuss your proposal with them.

5. My reference is unable to submit a letter online. Is there an alternative?

NEH strongly encourages referees to submit their letters online. If they are unable to do so, referees may e-mail letters to FacultyAwards@neh.gov or fax them to 202-606-8204.

6. Do I need to submit a budget as part of the application?

No. No budget is required, and you should not submit one. The awards pay at a fixed rate of $4,200 per full-time month (or equivalent). You need only specify how many months of support you are requesting. More details about specifying the terms of your award appear in Section II of the guidelines (“Award Information”).

7. How will my application be reviewed?

All applications receive peer review. Teachers and scholars in the humanities will read and rate your application, using the evaluation criteria listed in Section V of the application guidelines. The staff will compile a slate of recommended applications based on the panelists’ comments and ratings. The National Council on the Humanities will review the recommendations and provide additional insight. All advice—from the panelists, staff, and National Council—will be sent to the NEH Chairman. By law, only the Chairman is empowered to make an award. More details about NEH’s review process are available here.

8. Can I see the evaluators’ comments after the competition has ended?

Yes. To request the comments, send an e-mail message including your NEH application number to FacultyAwards@neh.gov. If your application is unsuccessful, the comments may help you revise it for resubmission. If you also submitted an application for an NEH Fellowship, you must separately ask to receive the comments on that application, by sending an e-mail to Fellowships@neh.gov.

IV. Using Grants.gov

1. How do I know if I have submitted my application successfully?

After you submit your application, you should receive four e-mail messages confirming receipt of your application. To ensure that your application is properly processed, please verify that you have received all four confirmations:

1. Grants.gov Submission Receipt;
2. Grants.gov Submission Validation Receipt;
3. Grants.gov Grantor Agency Retrieval Receipt; and
4. Grants.gov Agency Tracking Number Assignment.

These e-mail messages are from Grants.gov and are normally sent within twenty-four hours of the submission, but delays could occur when system usage is heavy. Each message includes your application's Grants.gov tracking number, and the fourth one also provides your NEH application number, which is different from your Grants.gov tracking number. Keep these messages for your records.

If you do not receive all four messages from Grants.gov, or if any of the messages indicates that the application has been rejected, contact Grants.gov (www.grants.gov) at 1-800-518-GRANTS (4726) or support@grants.gov. Include the Grants.gov tracking number in correspondence regarding the application.

If your application is rejected at NEH for reasons such as its use of invalid file types (any non-PDF format, including .doc and .rtf, is invalid), the fourth message will indicate this. In this case you will also receive a rejection notice directly from NEH.

2. Can I check to see whether my letter writers have submitted their letters?

Yes. You will be notified by e-mail when each of your letters of reference has been received. After you have received your NEH application number, you may also check the status of your letters of reference by logging in to the secure area of NEH's website. Enter your NEH application number and your Grants.gov tracking number. You will be able to see the names and e-mail addresses of your letter writers and whether their letters of reference have arrived. If necessary, you may also send reminders to your letter writers (including the upload link) from this site.

3. What is the Application for Federal Domestic Assistance - Individual Form, and where do I find it?

The Application for Federal Domestic Assistance - Individual Form is a standard government application form. It is included in the "Mandatory Documents" field of the application package that you download from Grants.gov. To begin filling out the form, click on Application for Federal Domestic Assistance – Individual Form to open it.

4. What is a DUNS number? What is a TIN/EIN number? How do I find out my institution's numbers?

DUNS stands for "data universal numbering system." DUNS numbers are issued by Dun and Bradstreet (D & B) and consist of nine digits. TIN/EIN stands for "Taxpayer Identification Number/Employer Identification Number." If you have institutional affiliation, you should be able to get these numbers from your sponsored research office. Omit hyphens when entering these numbers into the electronic application forms.

More information about DUNS numbers is available here.
